STATE ROAD CONTRACTS ARE HELD INVALID

EAST END TO BE CLOSED FOR WORK ON AVE.

Detour Will be Used for Traffic of Public

TO HURRY WORK

Proposition of Charity Medical Services Again Engages Commissioners and No Decision

Announcement that construction and repair work is beginning in the East End and that the street will be closed to traffic was made by Mayor J. H. Keeney at the city meeting yesterday morning. A. V. Cline, state engineer, requested that the place be closed to the public during the improvements that the work might be finished sooner, the mayor stated.

The public detour will be used by the public during the work on East Cumberland Avenue. Commissioner J. E. Evans stated that slag would be used to improve certain places on the detour this week.

Commissioner C. E. Cooke made a motion that the city execute a contract with the Brosheer-Brummett hospital in accordance with the proposition that the city pay the hospital $750 for charity service for a year. Mayor Keeney and Commissioner Evans voting against the motion, it failed to carry. The hospital proposition has been before the city for several weeks. Mr. Cooke, claiming that the institution is doing public service here, argued that it should receive aid from the city. Mayor Keeney opposed this view as he did when the proposition was brought up earlier in the year.

Proposition of hiring a city physician at a regular salary was discussed, the mayor being in favor of it. He stated that a local physician had offered to do the work for $75 a month. No action was taken on the matter.

On motion of Mr. Cooke, the date at which penalty will be imposed for non-payment of city license was set at May 20. Permit for establishment of a pool room at the Junction was refused W. D. Marll. Request that repairs be made on North Tenth street and for a bridge near the Lynch cemetery was referred to the commissioner of public works for investigation.

COOLIDGE WILL GREET ROAD MEN

Latin American Delegation to Inspect Highways in Various States

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 6.—An audience with President Colidge and two days of entertainment, featured by a luncheon at the Pan American Union and an afternoon down the Potomac river, have been arranged for the Pan American Highway Commission when they assemble in Washington early in June.

Coming from twenty Latin American nations, the thirty eight men who are to make an intensive study of field highways and transportation in the United States as guests of the Highway Education Board and associate organizations, will meet in Washington on the morning of June 2 preparatory to a three weeks tour over the highways of this country.

The first official act of the commission will be to visit the state department, where the members will pay their respects to Secretary of State Hughes. Later they will be conducted to the White House and at noon will assemble at the executive offices, where they will be received by President Coolidge.

Luncheon will follow at the Pan American Union, where they will meet the diplomats and high officials of the countries represented on the commission.

On Tuesday, June 3, officials of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads will conduct the commission to Arlington, Virginia, where the experimental work of the Bureau of public Roads is conducted. At this experimental farm of the United States Department of Agriculture the commision will witness the experiments which are being made by the Federal Bureau for the purpose of solving the numerous problems of highway design and construction.

The scenic beauties of Rock Creek Park will be shown the visitors on their return from Arlington Experiment Station, and a luncheon will be arranged at Chevy Chase Country Club.

Another point of scientific interest on the program is the Bureau of Standards, where they will be taken in the afternoon. Visits to the Capitol, the Congressional Library, a dinner and a reception will conclude the entertainment features at the nation's capital. Thereafter, for three weeks, the members will be conducted by automobile and by rail through perhaps a score of states of the Union where highway problems most closely approximate those to be found in the

URGE WOMEN ON M. E. CHURCH BOARD

Unification of North and South Endorsed—Conference Opposes War

By Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS., May 5.—A movement to place women on boards of the Methodist Episcopal Church was started at quadriennial conference here today.

A resolution by a Kansas woman delegate was referred to a committee after Dr. Frank North, secretary of the board of Foreign Missions strongly endorsed the resolution. He said both male and female points of view were needed in order to get a full understanding of the issues considered by the boards. Another resolution asked deportation of all aliens who persist in violation of prohibition and narcotic laws. The conference endorsed enthusiastically the report of the national Methodist Convention at Louisville last April declaring against war and favoring unification of Northern and Southern Methodist churches.

KENTUCKY COAL LANDS VALUE MORE

Increase of 43.2 Per Cent Made in 4 Years

COLGAN ON BOARD

Eastern Kentucky Land Valuable Only For Coal and Lumber, Report of Bo Board

FRANKFORT, May 6.—Assessment of Kentucky Coal lands has been raised 43.2 percent in four years, and probably will be increased in some counties next year, John B. Lewis, chairman of the state tax commission, declared when the report of engineers working under the commission was made public.

The report was one to Gov-etaol The report was one made to Governor Fields in February in accordance with resolutions of the 1922 general assembly, appropriating $20,000 for 1922 and the same amount in 1923 for a mineral survey, on which appraisal of coal lands was to be made.

The increased assessment in agricultural counties in the same period increased only 7.1 percent, the report showed.

"The survey has resulted in raising the value of mineral lands," Chairman Lewis said, "and will result in further raising the value in the next year. Assessments of mining plants and mining equipment has been raised as a result.

The report briefly summed up, shows:

Lands in coal bearing counties show an average increase of 43.2 percent.

Lands in agricultural counties show an increase of 7.1 percent.

Total (land, mine equipment and improvements) in coal bearing counties show an increase of 47.7 percent.

Eighteen counties produce 85 percent of the coal mined in Kentucky, with the following percent assessment increase in 1923 over 1919.

Bell 12.5; Clay, 17; Floyd, 102; Harlan, 99; Hopkins 8; Johnson 13; Knott 52; Knox 16; Laurel 7; Leslie 19; Letcher 112; Muhlenberg, 29; Ohio, 31; Perry 136; Pike 102; Union 99; Webster 4; Whitley, 0.

P. T. Colgan, Middlesboro, having 25 years experience in the coal industry in Eastern Kentucky and West Virginia and J. L. Smith, Danville, with 10 years experience, with other engineers made the report, Chairman Lewis said.

The geological survey and officials of the state mine inspector's office at Lexington assisted in the survey.

Thickness of coal and almost endless technical details make up the basis for valuation, the report showed, accompanied by exhaustive figures detailed.

The taxation of mineral resources remains the same as other lands by action of the 1921 general assembly in refraining from placing a special tax on its list of acts.

"In the eastern Kentucky coal field the land is valuable for coal and timber only," Chairman Lewis said. "More than one half o fthe area known to contain workable coal in this state is under lease or owned by operators. The major jorton of these lands is being held under lease at the prevailing price of 10 cents per ton royalty in the eastern part of the state. In the west section, the average held under lease is not nearly so great nor is the royalty rate so high, the average in this section being about 7 cents per ton.

TWO MORE BIG ROAD BUILDING DAYS PLANNED

Prominent Men of State to Join in Work

MAY 19 AND 20

Will Make Big Improvements on Barbourville to Corbin, Roundstone to Berea Roads

LEXINGTON, May 6.—The mayor, Lexington Board of Commerce and the hotels and a number of banking institutions will join with the Kentucky Dixie Committee, F. O. Clark, Berea, W. H. Candler, Corbin and Chas. Conant, Pineville, and the people of Knox and Rockcastle counties in making May 19 and 20 real Red Letter Days for Kentucky in road building on the stretches between Barbourville and Corbin, and between Roundstone and Berea.

Invitations are being sent to the mayors, hotels, banks and all civic organizations in all towns on the line of Dixie Route A between the Ohio river at Cincinnati through Asheville to Miami and St. Petersburg, Florida, and it is believed several hundred people from adjoining states will be present for the big event. Lexington will itself send a large delegation in cars and be of all assistance possible in making the day a success both as to the amount of rock broken, dinner consumed, and the use of their cars in transporting visitors over the two pieces of road for inspection of the amount of work done, and in extolling the beauties of central and southeastern Kentucky and the advantages of Dixie Route A.

Invitation to the Fayette Farmers union was extended at its meeting last Saturday by N. Buckner, of Asheville N. C., and to the business men of Cynthiana by C. O'Conner, of Asheville, both connected with the Dixie Route A and the Asheville organization interested in the open road from Lakes to gulf. Delegatinns will be sent by the farmers of Fayette and the business men of Cynthiana.

It is expected that all road records will be broken in amount of base rock laid on these two days, and that fully a mile wil be laid and broken on each stretch of road by the 2,000 people who are expected to be in attendance. The usual Kentucky type of generous hospitality and big picnic dinners will not disappoint the visitors from other states, and other parts of the state.

The completion of these two stretches of road, providing a connected highway from the middle west to the south will enormously increase the amount of commercial and tourist travel, and also local travel, all of which means added business activities all along the road, as tourist, commercial and all local travel require much service and supplies from garages, filling stations hotels, and stores of all kinds.

Already a considerable increase in travel is noted, as the road is open now from Miami to Asheville, Knoxville, Middlesboro, Corbin Mt. Vernon, and from Mt. Vernon to Lexington thru Crab Orchard until May 20 when the road through Berea is expected to be ready for use.

Advices are that the Kiwanis clubs in Middlesboro, Pineville, Barbourville, Corbin and Berea, and the Exchange club in Richmond have been unusually active and helpful to this movement for the open road across Kentucky.

Round the World Hiker Spends Sunday Night In Middlesboro

Around the world on foot is the astonishing ambition of Nellie Walker, queen of hikers, who spent Sunday in Middlesboro and set out again yesterday morning to walk to Cincinnati. She is making her way by selling post cards and speaking in motion picture theaters along the way.

No haphazard traveler is Miss Walker who has already walked 5000 miles in the past fifteen months since leaving her home in Los Angeles. She is visiting the capital of every state in the union and interviewing all of the governors before she sets sail for Europe. She has an interesting book of well-known people's autographs and the seals of a number of states.

Miss Walker doesn't like the South at all and is hastening north again. She says the South doesn't understand the right of a woman to travel as she pleases when she pleases and she has had enough of the stares and undue curiosity which she found in the South. Back north, she declared, a woman may do as she wishes without it being anyone else's business.

The traveler was a rough and ready sort of person dressed in khaki and high walking boots, carrying her pack with her. She was, withal, a very interesting person with ideas of her own on eugenics, prohibition and the other topics of the day. She is studying these matters first hand and intends to write a book on her findings when she has finished her trip.

Miss Walker was very complimentary of Middlesboro which she exonerated from being Southern. She praised the hotel here particularly, saying that she had stopped at no better hotel in the whole South.

Kentucky Highway Construction Will Be Delayed For a Year

Decision Today Affects All State Departments

RELET IN JULY

Mountain Counties Particularly Hurt by Ruling Which Major Helburn Says Will Cost Half a Million

By Associated Press.

FRANKFORT, May 6.—The Court of Appeals today declared invalid contracts calling for one hundered and forty miles of state highway in a sweeping opinion by Judge McCandles the whole court sitting, affecting the future of the state commission, the whole road department and indirectly all other state departments. The opinion threw out all road contracts let last December effecting Christian, Knox, Laurel, Madison, Rockcastle, Pulaski, Allen, Caldwell, Owen, Crittenden, Estill, Lee, Owsley, Hart, Garrard, Boyle, and Larue counties. The opinion in substance held these contracts exceeded revenue for road purposes for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1921. In another way the court held the state road department is a creature of the legislature and must virtually close its work every two years.

Joe Boggs, chief engineer of the highway department, said the effect of the decision will be to suspend almost all the work of the entire department.

The effect of this decision, according to Major E. S. Helburn of this city, member of the State Highway Commission, will be practically to delay all road work in Kentucky a year and to make an added expense of half a million dollars. No new work can be started this year now, he says.

The contracts will of course be let by the present commission in July but they will necessarily have to carry over to next year, making an added expense to the contractors which the state will have to carry. The contracts were let at a good price last December, Major Helburn said, because contractors were outlining their work of the year and bidding was strong.

Technically the ruling is correct, Major Helburn said, but practically it will mean that no work can be done ahead of that for which the funds are actually in the treasury for all of it no matter when it is to be finished.

J. B. STOCKHOLDERS TO APPEAL CASE

Coal Companies in This Field Give Notice After Receiver Appointed

CINCINNATI, May 6—Upon application of the complainant in the receivership proceedings of the West Virginia Rail Company, Huntington, W. Va., against the Jewett, Bigelow and Brooks Coal Company, 622 Dixie Terminal Building, and 14 subsidiary coal companies operating in Kentucky and West Virginia coal fields, United States District Judge Smith Hickenlooper Saturday appointed Edward L. Douglas, Vice President of the National Coal Association and Vice President of the Jewett, Bigelow and Brooks Coal Company, Cincinnati, and John L. Richey, Cincinnati, manager of the Cincinnati Credit Men's Association, to be ancillary receivers in the south judicial district of Ohio.

It is averred that the complainant is the holder of a claim for $27,000; that the defendant company has debts maturing which it is unable to pay, and that it is necessary for the protection of the defendant, its stockholders and creditors that receivers be appointed to take charge of the assets and continue the business of the company and its subsidiaries.

Besides the Jewett, Bigelow and Brooks Co., the following companies are named as defendants in this action: The First Crek Mining Company, the Hazard-Jellico Coal Company, the J. B. Elkhorn Coal Company, the Black Joe Coal Company, the J. B. Blue Gem Coal Company, the JayBee Jellico Coal Company, the Bradley Jellico Coal Company, the J. B. Straight Creek Mining Company, the J. B. Elkhorn Land Company, the Harvey Jellico Coal Company, the Roth Coal Company, Jewett, Bigelow and Brooks, and the J. B. Stores Company. It is alleged that all of these companies, except the J. B. Stores Company is owned by the main defendant, the Jewett, Bigelow and Brooks Coal Company, and that the Stores Company is owned by the Seminole Gas Coal Company and Guyan Mining Company.

A Thought

A merry heart maketh a cheerful countenance: but by sorrow of the heart the spirit is broken.—Prov. 15-13.

Happiness is a rare cosmetic.—G. J. Melville.

SERIOUS QUESTIONS

I have seen a woman who was absolutely ignorant of her children's habit of thought, who never felt that she could spare a half hour to read or talk to them; I have seen this woman spend ten minutes in ironing a sheet—there were six in the washing; one hour in fluting the ruffles and arranging the puffs on her little girl's "sweet white suit;" thirty minutes in polishing tins which were already bright and forty minutes in frosting and decorating a cake for tea, because "company" was expected.

When the mother—a good orthodox Christian—shall appear before the Great White Throne, to be judged for "the deeds done in the body," and to give in her report of the Master's treasures placed in her care—there will be questions and and answers like these:

"Where are the boys and girls I gave gave thee?"

"Lord, I was busy keeping my house clean and in order, and my children wandered away."

"Where wert thou while thy sons and thy daughters were learning lessons of dishonesty, malice and impurity?"

"Lord, I was polishing furniture and ruffling dresses, and making beautiful rugs."

"What hast thou to show for thy life work?"

"The tidiest house, Lord, and the best starching and ironing in our neighborhood!"

NATIONAL MUSIC WEEK OBSERVED

Music Week is being celebrated throughout the country this week in the endeavor to make our nation pause in its hurry flurry and realize the part music has played and does play in our lives. This is certainly a worthy movement and one that should be widely observed.

Primitive man's first music was the twitter sing and whistling of birds, the singing of the wind in the treetops, the nymphic rollon of surf, the roar of the thunder and the twinkle of the brook.

All these appealed to man's emotions and to his spiritual instinct. Imitating the impressive voice of life, he began making music of his own.

Music is man's highest form of ex creative forcesearwyinrthoseymbfgw pression—his response to harmony, creative forces, beauty and the joy of living.

Next to religion and love and affection, music is man's closest approach to the spiritual. In all generations it reflects the degree of civilization. A nation reveals—or betrays—itself in its music.

The musical instinct is easily swayed. It can be refined. Or it can be degenerated. Accordingly, the idea of a national Music Week appeals to us as a fine movement—an attempt to elevate the standard of song and other music, as well as bring more joy into life. Such elevation is badly needed at present.

DAVIS WILL TAKE DEMOCRATIC NOMINATION, BUT ON HIS OWN PLATFORM

By Charles P. Stewart

WASHINGTON, May 5—John W. Davis is not a candidate for the democratic presidential nomination. He will take it if it comes his way and be mighty glad to get it, but only on his own terms.

"It is one thing," he wrote to a friend about a year ago, "to decline a nomination when tendered and a wholly different thing to go out and seek it, the latter of which I have no intention of doing."

With some, the fact that he's a corporation lawyer will not help him, but with others, it undoubtedly will.

Davis, however, isn't any Wall Street slave. He has J. P. Morgan and Co. on his list of clients, but let it be remembered the first two clients he ever had were "Mother" Jones and Eugene V. Debs.

That was some twenty-five years ago. Davis, recently graduated from Washington and Lee University had settled down in his native town of of Clarksburg, W. Va., to practice law. A mine strike was on. "Mother" Jones and Debs turned up to help it along. They were promptly thrown in jail. Davis took their cases. And he got them out.

He has fought various legal battles for labor since then. Quite lately he won a brilliant court engagement for the glassblowers' international union. As labor's attorney he beat an attempt to have the Adamson law declared unconstitutional.

Former Ambassador

Still, his backers do appear to consider his corporation connections, popularly speaking, something of a political handicap. All the publicity in his behalf is being framed and paid for in New York, but its being distributed from Clarksburg, W. Va., just as if he were a simple, roughhewn mountaineer. As a mountaineer, his eyrie is at 15 Broad street, Manhattan, but Clarksburg, W. Va., sounds better.

They do say that ex-Senator Clarence W. Watson, one of West Virginia's richest mountaineers, although, like Davis, now living in New York, is paying the bills.

It must be admitted, that Davis doesn't class as a leading candidate. He's a dark horse. But his friends believe that the leading candidates' forces will be so evenly divided that none will get the necessary two-thirdsof the votes, and after the thirtieth or fortieth ballot they're confident Davis will come to the front.

Davis isn't without political experience. He's served in the West Virginia legislature, in Congress, as federal solicitor general and as ambassador to England.

He was chairman of the first West Virginia convention to adopt a woman's suffrage plank. It was 14 years before its time, and the voters snowed it under overwhelmingly.

For World Court

He's a member of the New York legal firm of Stetson, Jennings, Russell and Davis. This isn't as "junior" as it sounds, for Stetson Jennings and Russell are dead and Davis really is head of the firm.

Davis is nearly fifty. He's tall and dignified, with a smooth face and nearly white hair. He doesn't exactly look like Woodrow Wilson but some say if he wore glasses he'd suggest the latter. He's widely traveled, deeply read, wondrfully well informd.

Here's his personal platform for the United States:

1 Elimination of hang-over, lame duck administrations.

2 Ratification of treaties by both houses of Congress instead of by the SSenate alone.

3. Authorization of the presidential veto of appropriation bills by specific items.

4. Recodification of American federal and international laws.

5. Immediate American entry into the World Court.

Davis married Miss Julia McDonald in 1889. She died in 1900, leaving one daughter. In 1912 Davis married Misss Ellen Bassel, daughter of his father's law partner.

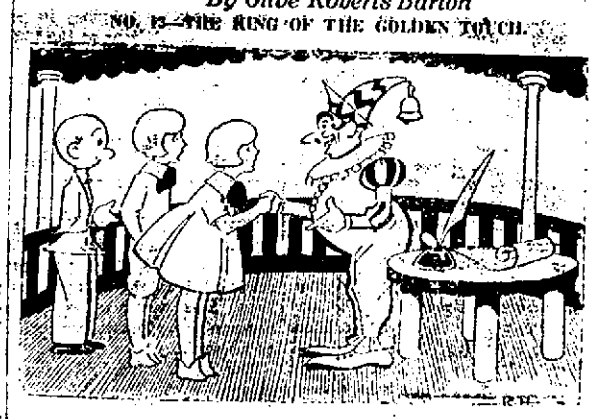
Adventures of The Twins

By Olive Roberts Barton

NO. 13—THE KING OF THE GOLDEN TOUCH.



"How do you do?" he said.

THE next place the Twins went to in Once-Upon-a Time Land was the castle of King Midas of the Golden Touch.

The little automobile bore the three travelers past seven vineyards and seven orchards and pretty soon they came to the famous castle.

The castle was on top of a high mountain and the only way one could get to it was by a narrow stairway cut out of the rock.

"My gdooness" panted Nancy when she came to the top, "I'd hate to live up here. If I had to climb these every time I did an errand for mother, there wouldn't be anything left of me."

"I don't think much of it myself," added Mister Muggs, shaking his legs one at a time to get the cramps out.

"S-h-h-h!" whispered a voice close by. "Please don't talk so loud. His highness might hear you and it would make him hopping mad. Come into this summer house and I'll tell you a secret."

So Nancy and Nick and Mister Muggs went into the little summer house, and there sat a funny fellow with bells all over him, adding up sums.

"How do you do?" he said, bowing until all his bells jingled. "I'm Hop-Skip-and-Jump, the court jester. It's my job to make the king laugh. It is also my duty to keep trouble away from the king. That's why I see all visitors first. Please sit down."

"I saw you coming miles away," said Hop-Skip-and-Jump. "I was looking out of my window. I can see around the world from here. So I always know when visitors are coming. Will you do as I tell you?"

"Certainly," said Mister Muggs.

"All right then," said Hop-Skip-and Jump. "Take off your gold rings and gold watches and everything that is gold about you. King Midas has a conniption fit if he sees so much as a gold tooth. It is one word he can't bear, Gold! That's why I add up the accounts off here, because he can't even think of money.

"Why?" asked Nick curiously.

"Well, once upon a time King Midas was poor. But a kind fairy said she would grant him one wish. So he wished that everything that he touched would turn to gold."

"And so it happened. His wish was granted, and everything he put his fingers on instantly turned into gold. Even his daughter turned into gold when he kissed her. When he touched food and water it also turned into gold, and he was starving. I don't know what would have happened if the fairy hadn't come back and taken the gift away she had bestowed, and put things to rights.

"After that he moved here, away from the gold and glitter of the world so he would not be reminded of his folly. That's the story. Now I shall take you to the king."

King Midas was a fine jolly king and asked them to stay to dinner. But even the spoons were of wood no silver or gold was to be seen anywhere. Which showed that king Midas like other good people, did not like to be reminded of his folishness.

Fire Saturday at Motch Garage Averted

Presence of mind and prompt action probably prevented a serious fire in front of the Motch Motor company garage Saturday morning. A patron whose car was being supplied with gasoline carelessly threw a lighted cigarette or match on the sidewalk where the gasoline had been spilled. This immediately became ignited near the gas pump. W. D. Motch quickly extinguished the blaze with a pyrene extinguisher.

GOIN' BAREFOOT—

Hal Cochran's DAILY POEM

The grass is all dewy, and gee, but it's cool. It's smooth and it's soft and it beckons. It makes a man wish he was back there in school to go barefoot for just a few seconds.

The sandpile looks tempting when kids are at play. You've seen 'em and you'll understand. Oh, just to be barefoot for even a day and go milling around in the sand.

Perhaps it has rained and your driveway is muck, and the puddles of water are oozing. If you could just take off your stockings—what luck! You'd do it if you had your choosing.

The carpet at home is a velvety like the spreading of lawn that's unrested. It makes a man feel that he'd just like a fling at paradin' upon it, barefooted.

Say, man, when these things are a-calling to you, just park yourself down on the floor, and joyfully do what the little folks do: take stockings and shoes off once more.

Mountain lions? They're all in the day's work for Bob Baker of Libby, Mont. Armed with a lasso and with his dogs, he roamed through Glacier National Park and nearby mountains looking for lions. He ropes them like a cowboy ropes a steer. Bob's noted as the champion bare-handed lion catcher of America. He caught 500 in the last 20 years. Most of them have gone to circuses and zoos. And Bob's partner, Jim Whilt of Eureka, Mont., who has been in the business only four years, already has 100 to his credit. Cabinet Officers and Health Chief Urge Nationwide Support of Move To Raise America's Home Standards

JAMES J. DAVIS DR. HUBERT WORK DR. HUGH S. CUMMING

To the endorsement and support of leading national organizations of men and women numbering millions of members, Better Homes in America can add the strong support of leading officials of the federal government. Dr. Hubert Work, Secretary of the Interior, formerly Postmaster General, and past president of the American Medical Association, Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, and Dr. Hugh S. Cumming, Surgeon-General of the U. S. Public Health Service, all are members of the Advisory Council of Better Homes in America and strong backers of this educational movement, which will demonstrate "better homes" in many hundreds of communities during the week set aside for that purpose.

Dr. Work says of the movement: "Better homes mean better people. Man's progress is measured by his home environment, which in turn reflects his social advancement. We look at the world through the windows of our home, and our vision is tinted by the life we have set up within its walls. And when we pass over the threshold we carry with us the influence of our home setting.

"Comfort from modern working appliances, health from sunshine and fresh air, inspiration from harmonious surroundings, and contentment from simple living should be the aspirations of all home-builders, for these things affect the character of our children. They help to make the home a refuge where we may pause after the day's work to gather strength for further achievement."

Secretary Davis, on the same subject, says: "Civilization is known by the homes its people live in. Past achievements in arts and sciences are reflected in the permanence of architecture and convenience of the habitations they left behind and are told in stories of home and fireside. For civilization is built by man as a means for more happily spending the short years of his life. Mere houses are not homes nor architectural elegance the object of man's creative genius. The structures men create are raised for a purpose. Better men build better homes; from better homes come better men."

Surgeon-General Cumming has written as follows: "Unhealthy people are apt to make unhealthy homes, and unhealthy homes make unhealthy people. This constitutes a vicious circle, the tendency of which is to make health conditions progressively worse. The Better Homes movement interrupts this vicious circle, so that health conditions tend to improve progressively. Cheerful, attractive, well lighted, well ventilated and well planned houses furnish ideal conditions for the retention and improvement of health. They furnish a great incentive to hygienic living and at the same time provide the physical surroundings necessary for its practice. I am heartily in favor of this movement."

INFLUENCE CHURCH REVIVAL EXTENDS

Crowds Pack All Services at Christian Meeting to Close This Week

"Where Shall You Spend Eternity" was the subject of the powerful sermon preached last night by Dr. D. W. Scott, evangelist at the Christian church. The church building was packed at this service as it had been at both churches Sunday and at others last week. This is the last of the service.

The revival services are attracting the interest of the whole city. There have been several conversions and a deeper spirituality has been awakened in the lives of the church members. Dr. Scott has the rare power of taking the Bible and like a skilled surgeon with a sharp instrument he cuts through the shams and hypocrisies of modern life. His deep earnestness keeps him from being sensational yet he is unsparing in his exposures of sin.

Dr. Scott has another powerful sermon for tonight. Miss Warrener will sing "He Knows the Way."
